Quilts and Thread Crafts to be Displayed at 2022 Heritage Needlework Guild’s “Quilt and Needlework Show” During Applejack Festival

The Work of Two Longtime Members to be Showcased

Be a part of the celebration of two lifetimes of quilting and needlework during the Heritage Needlework Guild’s Quilt and Needlework Show Sept. 16, 17 & 18th held in conjunction with the 2022 Applejack Festival in Nebraska City.

Amid the scores of quilts and needlework on display during this annual show will be several works of this year’s Featured Guild Artist Lois Whitehead of Sydney, IA, as well as the 2022 Featured Guild Member Phyllis Masters of Syracuse, NE.

For the past 30 years, Lois Whitehead has been an avid quilter and rug hooker. A member of the Heritage Needlework Guild since 2005, Lois likes to try new techniques such as applique and English paper piecing. A visit to her home reveals stacks and stacks of colorful quilts, a testimony to her many years of passion and skill for this art.

Like many young girls in her generation, Featured Guild Member Phyllis Masters was an enthusiastic 4-H garment sewer, winning Blue Ribbons at county and state fairs. Later, Phyllis sewed clothes for her three daughters and taught sewing as a 4-H leader.

Phyllis’ quilting journey began in 1991 when she took her first quilting class and learned to use a rotary cutter. Since then, she’s taken many more classes and taught several herself.

A career highlight for Phyllis was her work with Jo Morton, Nebraska City’s most famous quilter, in Jo’s “Saturday Sewers” group. Over the course of a decade, this group pieced hundreds of quilt blocks, many of which were published in Jo Morton’s books.

The beautiful work of these two members will be on special display during the show.
